

“HE WALKED THE WALK”

I met a man the other day,
Who thought he knew you well.
“What was the greatest thing Coach gave?”
He wanted me to tell.
“Was it the things of which he spoke?
I know that man can talk.”
“Not even close,” was my reply.
“He simply walked the walk.”
“What’s most important,” he then asked,
“The way he got prepared?”
“No, not at all,” I answered back,
“He simply walked the walk.”
“I know the key. He passed it on,
Because he was a jock.”
“You're getting closer, sir,” I said,
“He simply walked the walk.”
“I have it now!” then said the man,
“He used to be a rock.”
“You're almost there, but here's a clue.
He simply walked the walk.”
I said, “For me he has done much.
Agreeing with his talk.
But the greatest gift he ever gave,
He simply walked the walk.”

S. Nater